VETERAN BROADWAY CAST ANNOUNCED FOR "CIVIL WAR VOICES"

A Musical Remembrance

JUNE HAVOC THEATRE at the ABINGDON COMPLEX MIDTOWN INTERNATIONAL THEATRE FESTIVAL

"Civil War Voices" a musical remembrance by James R. Harris which will be performed at the June Havoc Theatre at the Abingdon Complex, 312 West 36th Street as part of the Midtown International Theatre Festival, has announced a powerhouse cast that includes Broadway veterans Danielle Lee Graves (Rent), Stephen Hope (Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, Scarlett Pimpernel), Stephen Trafton (Les Miserables revival) and Catherine Fries Vaughn (Do Black Patent Shoes Really Reflect Up?); plus familiar off-Broadway faces Dani Marcus (recently seen in The Adventures of Hershele Ostropolyer with The National Yiddish Theatre), Michael Sample (Unbeatable, Immortal Journey), Arthur Marks (SIDD, The Screams of Kitty Genovese), Michael Markham (Mother Courage and Her Children and Macbeth at the Delacorte Theatre) and Carly Zien (Kaspar Hauser, Cato, Infiltrage 2).

Featuring the songs of the period with arrangements by Mark Hayes, the show is directed by Dennis Courtney, with musical director Laura Bergquist and Austin Hartman on violin. Producers Alma Villegas, Bob Ost / Wildly Productive Productions and Rough and Ready LLC also announce the designers for this festival production: set design is by EMMY Award winning Kevin Lee Allen with costumes by Janell Berte, who designed costumes for Family Dinner currently at the Beckett Theater, and Plagued, a love story which performed in New York Musical Theatre Festival (NYMF) last year.
